

February 2015

Greetings from VW! Hope you all had a wonderful Valentine's Day! With all this love in the air, it's a good time to start thinking about your wedding plans. No matter where you are in the process, VenturaWedding.com has something for you. Here's what's new at VW:

Let's get social

While our specialty is helping you select your dream wedding location, we also have some fun features to inspire, inform, and delight! You can find links to all our social media at the bottom of our website pages.

Check out our weekly Facebook posts for announcements, links to cool wedding products and DIY projects, sweet photos, and more.

Our VW blog is another great resource for information on wedding planning from engagement to seal-the-deal and make it real day! We cover everything wedding including how to set a budget, how to keep kids entertained at weddings, maid of honor responsibilities, and new trends like unplugged weddings.

If you love watching videos, you may like to browse our Youtube and Vimeo channels. They are full of sample wedding videos shot on location at dozens of local wedding venues.

Brides-to-be (and brides-that-are-now-wives) may enjoy interacting with other brides in our online forum. It is a great place to give advice and recommendations or to seek answers to wedding related questions. Give it a try!

In the works

At VW we work hard to bring you the best information on the finest local wedding venues in a stylish and easy-to-use site.
